CPD

Individual: Self-directed learning	Private study, reading of journal articles and books	My reading has included Atul Gawandi's Being Mortal and Paul Kalanithi's When breath becomes air. I have gained insight into the way contemporary healthcare practitioners in general, and senior medics in particular, engage with end of life issues and the spiritual questions these raise. This has informed and enhanced my engagement with all health care professionals among whom I work. Development and delivery of a MKN for Scottish Chaplains. Contribution to the content and form of the MKN for Values Based Reflective Practice in Scotland. Informing a faith community in Scotland about key developments in Scottish Healthcare Chaplaincy and about how individual members can be involved in the shaping and delivery of Health and Social Care Chaplaincy.	20

Internal: Work-based learning	Health and Safety: Work Station Posture on-line learning Team Development Day	Ability to adjust a work station to suit my needs. Avoidance of back and neck pain. Clearer understanding of aims, objectives, roles and responsibilities and areas of accountability within the NES Team.	2 6
External: Formal educational activity	Diploma in Pastoral Supervision (Institute of Pastoral Supervisors and Educators)	I am able to identify and meet ethical and professional standards in pastoral supervision. I can establish the supervision covenant/contract. I can shape supervision to the supervisee's learning style and stage of development and practice. I have acquired a range of practical skills for supervision. I can reflect and facilitate reflection upon values and beliefs. I can bring psychological insights into dialogue with this work. I have gained insights into my own professional development and reflexivity as a Chaplain.	176
